WORKING REMOTELY AT HARVARD

Welcome to the Harvard-Yenching Institute! Below is some information you will need to join the Harvard community, and some guidelines for operating remotely.

As a Visiting Scholar or a Visiting Fellow, your primary responsibility is to focus on your research. Scholars and Fellows may also gather for occasional informal seminars to present and discuss research with each other. Those in the Visiting Scholars program will each give a public talk on their research sometime during the academic year. Visiting Fellows (doctoral candidates) and Training Program Scholars will attend a regularly scheduled workshop to present on the progress of their dissertation or research project. Throughout the year, all HYI affiliates are welcome to meet with faculty and students in their field for lectures, colloquia and/or seminars, as well as informal discussions. We hope that you will take full advantage of these and other HYI events. All activities will be conducted remotely.

Everything presented here is subject to frequent updates! New information may come from the University and Harvard’s IT Department (HUIT). We will do our best to keep you informed of any news or changes relating to your affiliation. The HYI staff and most of the Harvard staff are all working remotely, too. Our own contact information is listed at the end of this guide.

First Steps as Harvard affiliates

1. A Harvard ID number (HUID) will be assigned to you. You will receive an ID number but not an actual ID card.
   a. For visiting scholars, your ID number will be active on the first day of your appointment (September 1, 2020).
   b. For visiting fellows (doctoral candidates), you will receive an email from the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences (GSAS) with instructions on how to obtain your ID number. If you do not receive an email within 7 to 10 days after accepting your GSAS offer of admission, please email gsas_apphelp@fas.harvard.edu.

2. Obtain your HarvardKey <https://key.harvard.edu/>
   This is your username and password which connects you electronically to resources at Harvard including full access to the Harvard University Library System and its collections.

3. Sign up for a Harvard e-mail account:

   Visiting Scholars: Please email <ithelp@harvard.edu> and tell them you are a Harvard-Yenching Institute Visiting Scholar, provide them with your HUID number, and explain that you would like to open a Faculty of Arts and Sciences (FAS) email account.

   Visiting Fellows: If you would like to have a “@g.harvard.edu” email address, please email ithelp@harvard.edu and tell them you are a Harvard-Yenching Institute Visiting Fellow, provide them with your HUID number, and explain that you would like to open a g.harvard.edu account.

4. Activate two-step verification: This provides security so that you can remotely access Harvard’s systems with your laptop or other device. For instructions, please go to:
   https://harvard.service-now.com/ithelp?id=kb_article&sys_id=0e04bf8a37ce72803dc68ff1b3990e66

5. Ensure that your personal computer is updated and secure. Find security guidelines at https://security.harvard.edu/personal-device-security-guides

If you encounter any difficulties, you can contact the Harvard University IT services group at ithelp@harvard.edu for help.

Your Fellowship Payment

Visiting Scholars (including those in the Training Programs) will receive their stipends via an international bank wire. Wires will be processed every other month, and your first stipend should arrive during the first week of September. Please contact Susan Scott <susan.scott@harvard.edu> if you have any questions or concerns.

Visiting Fellows will also receive their stipends via an international bank wire, and will receive an email with instructions on how to sign up for this service in their GSAS admission letter, as well as in a monthly email around each disbursement date. For more information, visit the GSAS website and click the “International Stipend & Tax Information” section or contact Alex Kent at Visiting Fellows Office (akent@fas.harvard.edu).

Library Resources

HYI will arrange an introductory meeting in early September for all HYI Visiting Scholars and Visiting Fellows to meet with the librarians at the Harvard-Yenching Library. In early fall, we will also arrange information sessions on how to use Harvard University Library’s Western-language digital resources.

The following websites provide you with helpful general information on the Harvard University Library System.

- Harvard-Yenching Library website https://library.harvard.edu/libraries/yenching
- Widener Library website library.harvard.edu/libraries/widener
- Many other libraries at Harvard: https://library.harvard.edu/libraries

Harvard University Library System has resumed some on-campus services, including book pickup (please feel free to ask your research assistant for help), virtual consultations, and fulfilling scanning/digitization requests. Many library materials are available online, but library buildings remain closed until further notice. For more information on HU library services and collections, please refer to the following resources.
● HOLLIS: Harvard Library’s catalog. Search HOLLIS for books, articles, media, and more: https://library.harvard.edu/services-tools/hollis

● Virtual tour of Widener Library

● Widener Library will be scheduling some info. sessions this fall for faculty and scholars. The following link lists some that you may find helpful: https://libcal.library.harvard.edu/calendar/faspub/?t=d&q=library%20&cid=8413&cal=8413&inc=0

● Widener Library and Harvard-Yenching Library offer one-on-one sessions for individual scholars and provide detailed instructions on how to access and use digital resources. You can either send a request through this link https://library.harvard.edu/services-tools/research-consultations or directly get in touch via email with a librarian in your field at the Harvard-Yenching Library (see contact info below).

Resources at the Harvard-Yenching Library:

Many of you will regularly use the Harvard-Yenching Library, which holds the most comprehensive East Asian collection of any American university. Listed below is the librarian contact information. Please feel free to contact the librarian with the relevant East Asian language specific expertise.

Auditing Classes

Many courses are offered by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and by other schools across the university. You can find all the course catalogs at <my.harvard.edu>.

You may audit (remotely) classes with the course instructor’s permission. Please note that non-lab classes are offered remotely for 2020-21. If there is a specific course that you are very interested in auditing, please obtain the instructor’s permission. You can contact the instructor by email prior to the first meeting of the class, introduce yourself and share your research interests and the reasons why you would like to take the course. If the instructor does not respond to you, please do not take this as an outright rejection. Try to contact them again after a few days. Usually a big lecture course is more accommodating than a small graduate seminar, but whether or not a course allows an auditor really depends on the policy that individual faculty members set for their courses. If you need help, please let us know. Many faculty instructors happily accept auditors, but during these unusual times, there may be new rules and policies implemented for online classes in 2020-21. We will share updates as they become available.

Zoom course link (after you have permission to audit the course): From the course catalog listing in <my.harvard.edu>, you should be able to click on the Course Site at the top right, which goes to another page where you click on “course website.” The instructor should post the Zoom link to the first class on that page. If you get permission to audit a course from the instructor, we suggest that you also check on where to find the Zoom link for the first class.

Working with Your Mentor

The Harvard-Yenching Institute arranges mentorships for visiting scholars and visiting fellows. Each HYI affiliate has been assigned a mentor to work with during their remote affiliation with the HYI. Mentors are faculty members at Harvard or another university in the greater Boston area. Professor Elizabeth Perry, Director of the HYI, has written to your mentor and notified them of the arrangement of remote affiliation we made for you during 2020-21. Please contact Ruohong <ruohong_li@harvard.edu> if you have any questions about the mentorship.

For visiting scholars, your mentor will be invited to chair your public talk and serve as the discussant as well. For visiting fellows and visiting scholars in the training program, your mentor will join the workshop as a discussant when you present your dissertation research or your proposed research project. Francesca will work with regular program visiting scholars and their mentors to arrange the public talk series, and James will work with visiting fellows and training program visiting scholars to arrange their workshop presentations. In addition, you may want to make an appointment to meet with your mentor for a few times throughout the academic year. This mentor-mentee affiliation is quite informal, but please don’t hesitate to reach out to your mentor for advice on your research project and ask them to help introduce you to scholars and doctoral students in your field.

Please get in touch with your mentor shortly after the start of the academic year in early September. With your mentor’s support, the HYI staff are committed to making this a meaningful and productive year for all our affiliates.

Working with Your Research Assistant

The Harvard-Yenching Institute will help arrange research assistance for each of our visiting scholars and visiting fellows through their mentor’s introduction and HYI’s own network. Please feel free to ask your research assistant for help in the following areas:

- Accessing Harvard library materials that are not digitally accessible or available;
- Participating in weekly or bi-weekly informal conversations about teaching, training and research methods and approaches;
- Helping with your English writing and practicing your talk in English;
- Introducing you to other students and scholars who share your research interests.

Please feel free to discuss with your research assistant the best way to utilize their time. We suggest hiring an RA for 2-3 hours per week; the Harvard-Yenching Institute will provide up to $2,500 for each affiliate to hire a research assistant. It is important to contact Francesca (for visiting scholars) or James (for visiting fellows) in advance to make sure that your RA is eligible to work. If you plan to hire a professional editor for a manuscript that has already been accepted by a press, please contact Susan for further information.

Your Contact Information

Since our program is operating remotely, it is essential for the HYI staff to have your most up-to-date contact information. Visiting Scholars: please send Francesca your best mailing address and home address if it is different, your mobile number, and email address. Visiting Fellows: please send the same set of contact information to James. Please notify us of any change to your contact information during your fellowship year and after.
